

February 23, 2009 Program: Valerie Toliver Demonstrator

As artists, we know there is something wrong with the painting, but do not know what it is. Valerie Toliver, calls herself a teacher more than an artist. Valerie has been teaching watercolor since 2004 around the valley. Currently, she is teaching at Jerrys Artarama, Hobby Lobby, and at her studio in Central Phoenix.

On February 23rd, Valerie will demonstrate techniques in watercolor that gives you that, "Oh, now I get it!" answer to problems you may have encountered in watercolor. If your painting looks flat, she shows you how to give it depth. If you find your painting lacks color, she shows you how to mix the right amount of paint and water to give it the vivid color it needs. You do not have to be frustrated. Bring in your unfinished watercolor paintings and she will give you a quick insight that will get you past the frustration... and excited to finish your work!
